An early Pennsylvania log house and an Ohio post and beam barn are combined to create this three bedroom, three-bath house. The log house style is circa 1790's. The barn style is circa 1830's. The original framing of these barns are massive oak beams with a queen post roof system.

A loft above the kitchen area creates a family room. One large beam spans the entire building to support the loft. A vaulted ceiling with an open-hearth fireplace at the far end of the great room gives this home an open spacious feel. Windowed cupolas patterned after original barn elements provide extra light and ventilation.
